*A profound design process
eventually makes the patron, the architect, and every occasional visitor in the building a slightly better human being.”*

Profile

TerraCraft is an emerging architectural practice with a construction and project management arm, currently based in Ghana. The firm strives to reinvent the urban and sub-urban built environment with refreshing ideas that cause what it defines as “provocative architecture.”

The mantra calls the team at TerraCraft to design sustainable, thought provoking and enthralling edifices that engage all who are affected by it.

At TerraCraft, the ideal is not just to design to please the client, in fact, the goal is to help the client put up a building that will captivate every single person who will “see” the building. The reason our goal on every project is to build quality, fast and within budget!

Design.

The design team made up of architects, structural engineers, electrical engineers, mechanical engineers, technicians and other allied professionals work toward translating the vision of our clients into reality by liaising to come up with modern, functional and head-turning designs that are easily deliverable within the Ghanaian context.

All design concepts go through rigorous processes to ensure the final product meets very well, the expectation of our clients while ensuring value for money designs are produced.

Construction

The idea every client visualizes cannot come to fruition unless adequate, intentional and guided steps are taken to deliver the tangible building project.

Our team of site engineers, artisans and building professionals all have imbibed in them, the core principle at TerraCraft; ensuring the client gets a well constructed, detail oriented, structurally sound building that is within budget.

Buildings put up by TerraCraft stand out because our carefully regimented construction process is followed to the letter, with no compromise. Saving the client time, money and the stress of dealing with inefficient artisans.
